DIGITISATION AND REPUBLISHING

Jeremy Mills Publishing has the experience and the facilities to re-publish out of print books, digitise printed books, scan colour illustrations and move printed work to the Internet.

We offer highly efficient, economical book digitisation, scanning and typesetting using new, state-of-the-art technology.

We can offer full high resolution scanning of colour images and text from printed titles, followed by

Optical Character Recognition scanning, page design and typesetting, in order to bring out of print titles back into print.

Collections of work, such as journals, can be scanned and assembled into new titles, either for online publication or for supply as high quality print ready PDF files.

These can be printed and specially bound to preserve them for the future.
